The World's Largest Collection of Last Remaining RMS Titanic Lifejackets Ever Seen.

A new dimension in "Living Titanic Exhibits" at the Titanic Museum Attraction in Pigeon Forge, TN.

MEDIA ALERT:

Out of the 3,000 life jackets from the RMS Titanic, only 12 are known to exist. Six of the life jackets are set to be on display July 1 through December 2019. The stories of these six rare RMS Titanic artifacts will be shared with the media – for the first time ever – by noted Titanic experts during an exclusive media unveiling at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, July 9 at Titanic Museum Attraction – Pigeon Forge. If you would like to attend this special media event and conduct interviews with the Titanic experts, please contact Erin Freeman at:

Pigeon Forge, Tennessee. - For the first and only time, the largest assemblage of remaining RMS Titanic Lifejackets will be on exclusive display July 1 through December 2019 at the Titanic Museum Attraction in Pigeon Forge, announces President, COO and Co-Owner, Mary Kellogg-Joslyn.

“This is a stunning, world exclusive exhibit we’re extremely proud to bring to Branson and to millions of our Titanic followers,” says Kellogg-Joslyn. “There are only 12 KNOWN Titanic lifejackets left in the world. For the first time anywhere, 6 of these priceless artifacts will be here at the Titanic Museum Attraction. These jackets gave hope to the helpless, and what stories they could tell. During this rare event, our Titanic crew will speak for them.”

According to Kellogg, the life jackets gave hope to the helpless, and their stories are incredibly compelling.

“The stories these life jackets could tell are remarkable,” said Kellogg. “During this rare event, our Titanic crew will speak for them by unveiling their history, for the first time.”

In addition to the historical significance of the life jackets, Kellogg explains some additional facts about the RMS Titanic’s voyage:

- There were enough life jackets to protect the 2,208 passengers and crew on board the RMS Titanic, but not enough lifeboats to save them all.
- The life jackets were made of hard cork and canvas, proving dangerous for many forced to jump into the water.
- A life boat drill was never held. It was scheduled on Sunday and the Captain cancelled it the day before.

The Titanic Museum Attraction in Pigeon Forge, Tennessee, opens daily at 9 a.m. Reservations are strongly suggested and can be made online at www.titanicpigeonforge.com or by phone at 800-381-7670.

“Beyond the media unveiling, the public is encouraged to plan ahead if they want to be among the first to witness this major Titanic Museum Attraction display,” said Kellogg.
